

0-100-10-7
1.492 R.7.C.

TRANSCRIPT OF BROADCAST

By
Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Station WGMS at 7-7:15 P.M.
21 January 1958

I'm interested to follow the trail of Mr. Gwilym Price of the Westinghouse Electric Corporation who is making the swing of the country soliciting money for the Crusade for Freedom and Radio Free Europe. He has been through Houston Texas and Dallas and Fort Worth, and he now has taken the placing of a four point statement for a paid statement of purported answers to the reports that I have been making to you over this microphone.

At each place at the solicitation luncheons at which he speaks, he is becoming a bit careless about the things he is saying in these speeches as regards my reports to you and the things that I have said. For example he is quoted in the Houston newspaper as saying that he doesn't know what is "in Lewis's craw" and that my research work is poor. This a demonstration of what can happen to a man when he gets out into a field in which he is over his depth and is being led around by some paid employees who have their own interest to look out for.

The fact is Mr. Price hasn't the slightest idea of whether my research is good, bad, or indifferent. He could have found out easily enough, because I tried earnestly over some weeks to get to him to tell him what is in my craw, as he says, and show him the documentation to the things that I have said and to demonstrate to him whether my research is good or not. But Mr. Gwilym Price ducks; he doesn't want to see it laid on the line. He apparently is not prepared to face the truth and the facts. He prefers to traipse all over the country with statements like this. The fact is I challenge Mr. Gwilym Price to face the facts and let me prove the things that I have said, and he can take this as a formal challenge, although I have little hope that he will step up and face the music. The people who have him in tow just can't afford to let him.